

HURRICANE IAN UPDATE:

DAILY FLORIDA UPDATE:

All Florida team members have checked-in, are safe, and report no injuries or major property damage to their homes. We also have no major property damage to report for our Lennox facilities in Florida. Thank you all for your communication efforts over the week. Continue to stay safe as you may be evaluating areas affected near you.

Hurricane Ian downgraded to a Tropical Storm as it moved across the state. Projections are showing the storm intensifying back to hurricane style winds as it hits the Atlantic. The storm is expected to target the Carolina Coast's Friday.

Key Messages for Hurricane Ian Advisory 29: 5:00 PM EDT Thu Sep 29, 2022

1. There is a danger of life-threatening storm surge through Friday along the coasts of northeast Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina. Residents in these areas should follow any advice given by local officials.

2. Hurricane-force winds are expected across coasts of South Carolina and southeastern North Carolina beginning early Friday, where a Hurricane Warning is in effect. Hurricane conditions are possible by tonight along the coasts of northeastern Florida, Georgia, and North Carolina where a Hurricane Watch is in effect. Preparations should be rushed to completion since tropical-storm-force winds will begin well before the center approaches the coast.

3. Ongoing major-to-record river flooding will continue across portions of central Florida, with considerable flooding in northern Florida. Considerable flash and urban flooding is expected across coastal portions of northeast Florida through Friday. Local significant flooding in southeastern Georgia and eastern South Carolina is expected through the end of the week.
